his past has eluded us. Selling his 'Mech to the Duchy for JumpShip fare to Galatea, Senn made it to the so-called Mercenary's Star just in time to be caught up in a Ghost Legion hiring spree. Though he no longer had his own 'Mech, he evidently impressed his potential employers enough with simulator scores and his grasp of battlefield tactics to earn a slot in the veteran mercenary command. Since then, he has demonstrated a definite flair for recon missions and short-range raid operations.

Little is known about Jacob Senn's origins before he appeared in the Duchy of Tamarind-Abbey in 3125 at the helm of a battered Wasp bearing Circinian colors. For this reason alone, if no other, speculation abounds that Senn grew up in the ruined remains of the Circinus Federation, a Periphery realm that disintegrated as one of the last holdout bases for the Word of Blake zealots during the Jihad; our own Order continues its investigation to see whether there are bones in the closet that can be used against Senn, but to date,

Commentary

Built for reconnaissance and raiding missions, the lightweight Blade is a fast, well-armored BattleMech with a potent mix of ballistic and laser weaponry. With a top speed well over 100 kilometers per hour, this 'Mech can quickly dart in, deliver a fearsome strike, and dart out before heavier units can often respond.

XX301-02A rolled off assembly lines especially with the modern mercenary command in mind. However, other commands (and leaders) have quickly come to realize the potential of this solid BattleMech, such as Aaron Sandoval's Swordsworn; this particular design was recently purchased by the Duke and joined the ranks of his Ghost Legion. Jacob Senn, its current pilot, has named this particular Blade "Unsung Hero." Senn shows a particular flair for precision gunnery using only his Myrdon autocannon during a run-by strike, while his skill with the 'Mech's lasers is only adequate, at best. When asked about this disparity, Senn claims that the sound and recoil of the heavy autocannon provide him a "reassuring feedback."
