Daneel Wolf and the few others that pilot vehicles in the Wolfkin Keshik are a minority unappreciated by some of their Keshik mates. Though the Clan invasion of the Inner Sphere in the 3050s showed how powerful combined-arms combat could be – fielding BattleMechs alongside vehicles, infantry and aerospace assets – many in the Wolfkin Keshik are traditional enough to remember the days when a Clansman of any salt would pilot only a 'Mech. They are smart enough to recognize Daneel's importance to their unit, but their hearts still remember a different time, which causes tension and, occasionally, provokes outright fights.

Like his fellow tankmen, however, Daneel stands tall, proud of who he is and fully aware of the importance he plays every time the Wolfkin Keshik enter combat. This quiet pride and dignity has won him many admirers among the Keshik, and has slowly begun to change the prevailing prejudices. It also helps that his combat ability on the field outshines even some of the MechWarriors'. As the complete conversion of the Clans to a combined-arms approach will make them more difficult to defeat in the long run, we should consider an attempt to sabotage this conversion process.

The JES Tactical Missile Carrier is Joint Equipment Systems' attempt to recapture this specialty market. Having produced the original SRM/LRM Carriers, in 3053 they lost the bid to produce upgraded versions of these venerable support vehicles. Shortly before the end of the Word of Blake Jihad, JES unveiled a new generation of missile carriers. However, the design's slow speed and relative lack of armor, combined with the end of the war, almost doomed the craft to extinction. Only orders from Periphery realms such as the Taurian Concordat, the Magistracy of Canopus, and the Marian Hegemony kept the design alive.

The particular design has fought on numerous battlefields across some six hundred light years, from the Periphery into the Republic. Having been taken in a Trial of Possession by its current pilot, Daneel Wolf loves the vehicle for its all-or-nothing design – massive firepower with almost no fall-back defense. He has named it "Blackwolf."
